Fountain Arts Building
Dublin, NH
$1 Million
7000 sf

Over the course of one summer, a small arts building was transformed into a 125 seat multi-use dance and performance space.

By removing and rebuilding the upper level, the new Fountain Arts Building supports both proscenium stage performances on the existing raised stage floor, and experimental productions utilizing the entire upper floor.

Beneath the control booth balcony, demountable seating platforms and cross-over space allow multiple "black box" configurations.

A dark color scheme and curtain drops along the mirrored rear wall and along the exterior wall allow the room to be switched from practice to performance mode with minimal effort.
