The Gordon School
New Gymnasium
East Providence, RI

2001

Gordon School, a 100-year-old independent school for nursery to eighth grade, wanted to build a new Field House, Library and Middle School Classroom Wing on its East Providence campus. In addition, Gordon needed to renovate and expand portions of its 1960's Lower School and Early Childhood buildings and to transform the old gymnasium into a new Performing Arts Facility.

The Gordon School's new gym was built with a direct link to the existing building for easy accessibility. The new athletic facility includes locker rooms, team facilities and faculty areas. Daylighting was a major part of the design. Muted natural light from the roof monitor filters through the brightly painted trusses and ducts while masonry buttresses and a playful entrance rotunda enliven the exterior.
